The History and Tradition of Imperial Feng Shui

Imperial Feng Shui is the golden thread that runs through the fabric of Chinese culture and civilization. Behind this ancient and noble philosophy lies the fundamental belief in unlimited human potential.

Revered by generations of erudite Chinese emperors, the art and science of Imperial Feng Shui manifests wealth, health and success through leveraging the powerful forces of Yin and Yang. Formerly the Chinese royal family's exclusive reserve, Imperial Feng Shui is emblematic of auspiciousness, abundance and achievement.

In particular, Emperor Qian Long of the Qing Dynasty was one of the most prominent, powerful and influential advocates of Imperial Feng Shui. Besides his talents in military campaigns and politics, he was also one of the most cultured rulers in China's dynastic history.

A man of great intellectual and artistic accomplishments, as well as a passion for Imperial Feng Shui, Emperor Qian Long was often depicted in portraits engaging in scholarly endeavours. He was known to be an avid calligrapher, appreciator of poetry and active peruser of fine art.

Intensely engaging in all manifestations of Imperial Feng Shui, Emperor Qian Long explored the sources of jadeite via military conquests, supervised production lines and encouraged the further innovation of Imperial Feng Shui.

It was under Emperor Qian Long that the Qing Golden Age of unparalleled prosperity flourished even further. Initiating new trends, Emperor Qian Long pioneered the East-meets-West aesthetic while paying respect towards Imperial Feng Shui traditions. With a 268-year long reign, the Qing Dynasty is Imperial China's longest reigning dynasty.

Today, precedents in the world of Imperial Feng Shui and fine jewellery set by Emperor Qian Long remain prominent. It is this philosophy of reimagined design excellence infused with authentic Imperial Feng Shui principles that Imperial Harvest strives to uphold continuously.

CHAPTER 2

Understanding Bazi

甲辰
戊癸

Overview of Four Pillars of Destiny

Four Pillars of Destiny (Bazi) is a logical forecasting system built on the principles of Yin Yang and the Five Elements. A Bazi chart is plotted based on an individual's year, month, date and time of birth.

The study of Bazi helps us understand the elemental deficiencies in our chart and identify the favourable elements to create balance, harmony and success. Hence when a Bazi chart achieves elemental balance, you will be presented with opportunities, benefactors and breakthroughs in your career, business, sales and investments.

The top row of a Bazi chart is known as the heavenly stem while its bottom row is known as the earthly branches.

The ten heavenly stems are namely Yang Wood, Yin Wood, Yang Fire, Yin Fire, Yang Earth, Yin Earth, Yang Metal, Yin Metal, Yang Water and Yin Water.

The twelve different earthly branches are made up of the twelve chinese zodiac animals. Each zodiac animal represents one of the five elements of either yin or yang polarity.

Definition of Favourable Elements

Favourable elements are elements which can help us achieve elemental balance in our Bazi chart. Every Bazi chart would have two or three favourable Bazi elements to create balance.

Every favourable element has corresponding auspicious colours:

Metal elemental colour: White

Water elemental colours: Black and Blue

Wood elemental colour: Green

Fire elemental colours: Red and Lavender

Earth elemental colours: Yellow and Brown

Metal

Wood

Water

Fire

Earth

Imperial Feng Shui master would apply these favourable elements to empower us to be in a state of consistent good luck. With this, we can maximise our life potential and achieve financial success, whether that's six-figure monthly sales commissions, high-paid and fulfilling jobs, or consistent growth in our investments.

The Principles of Yin & Yang

Before the universe morphed into and took its present form, all was vague and amorphous.

Although life existed, it was unable to sustain itself. In the study of I-Ching (易经), this phenomena is theorised as the Great Ultimate / the Great Beginning / Wu Ji (无极).

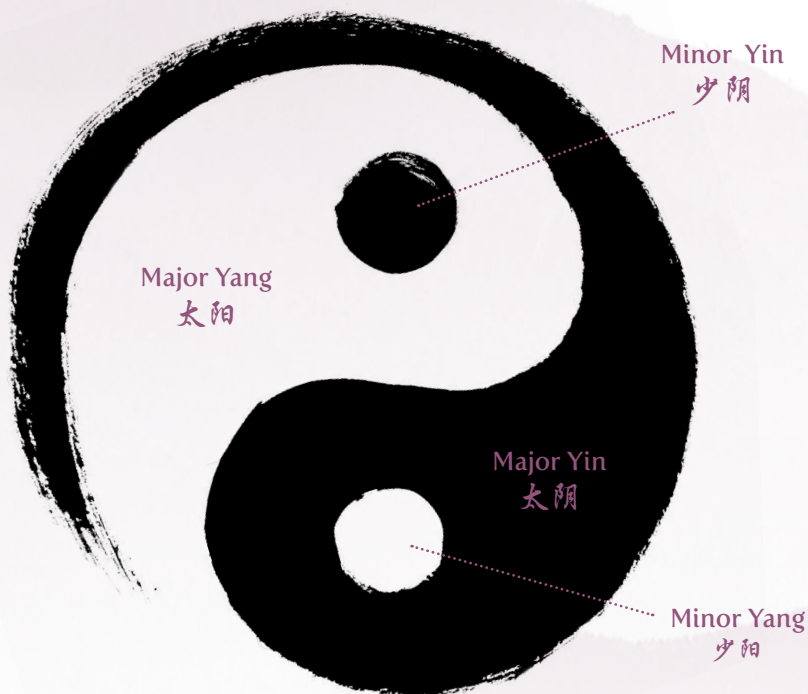

Over time, the universe gradually began to produce material forces. Forces which were clear and light drifted upwards to form the Heavens. Those that were heavy and turgid contrastingly solidified to form the Earth.

The combined essence of Heaven and Earth is known today as Tai Ji (太极).

Borne out of a conceptually whole reality stipulated within Tai Ji, Yin & Yang (阴阳) are thought of as complementary forces.

In Tai Ji, the symbols of Yin & Yang are joined in harmony to form a S-shaped jigsaw of black and white.

When the substance of Yin is separated from its accompanying Yang substance, the primal energies of life stimulating evolution are created.

In the diagram of Yin and Yang, the segments are further divided into what is known as the Four Phenomena.

The Four Phenomena are known as Major Yang, Major Yin, Minor Yang, and Minor Yin.

The Four Phenomena represent:

the Four Seasons: Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter

the Four Life Stages: Birth, Aging, Sickness, and Death

the Four Directions: East, South, West and North

The Four Phenomena are then further divided into the Ba Gua, which serves as the basis of Imperial Feng Shui.

Four Phenomena	Minor Yang	Major Yang	Minor Yin	Major Yin
Four Seasons	Spring	Summer	Autumn	Winter
Four Directions	East	South	West	North
Sphere of life it governs	Intuition	Direct wealth capacity	Indirect wealth capacity	Personal luck
Earthly treasures to activate	Jadeite Cabochons	Agarwood	Sandalwood	Jadeite Pendants

The Five Elements

Metal, Wood, Water, Fire and Earth form the basic components of all matter in the world. Forming a universal framework, the Five Elements govern our daily lives, the opportunities we come across and the people we meet.

Each individual is unique - some of us are born with more “wood” in our destiny charts while others are perhaps born with more “earth”. Such permutations of our Five Elements are dictated by the time, date, month and year of birth, as reflected in every Bazi chart.

Understanding our birth charts will reveal to us our lifetime favourable and unfavourable elements.

Earthly Branches represent the root and foundation of a Bazi chart. For an element to be considered strong, it has to appear in the Earthly Branches. In an Imperial Feng Shui Master's terminology, a strong element is rooted.

There are four possible locations for your favourable element to be rooted namely the Yearly Branch, Monthly Branch, Day Branch and Hour Branch.

If your favourable element is rooted in the Hour Branch, it is deemed as the third strongest root.

If your favourable element is rooted in the Day Branch, it is deemed as the second strongest root.

If your favourable element is rooted in the Month Branch, it is deemed as the strongest root.

If your favourable element is rooted in the Year Branch, it is deemed as the fourth strongest root.

Applied accurately, each individual's favourable elements empower them to be in a state of consistently good luck - placing them in good stead to achieve career, sales, investment and business breakthroughs.

In dynastic China, an appointed Imperial Feng Shui Master was responsible for prescribing and blessing elemental jadeite pendants, rings or beads for important members of the Chinese royal family.

Why Luck Matters

In the studies of Bazi, there are two important principles which underpin every individual's financial success: luck and wealth capacity.

To achieve breakthroughs in our career, business, sales and investment endeavours, good luck is crucial.

Often neglected, good luck is the one success factor that triumphs hard work, intelligence and talent. While many successful individuals are no doubt "smart", "gifted" and "diligent", not all hardworking and intelligent individuals are successful.

So what exactly is good luck?

Good luck is about being at the right place, at the right time, meeting the right people and doing the right things.

Many billionaires have openly admitted that the secret to being extremely successful is good luck.

“ I feel very strongly that I've won a lot of lotteries,” Bezos said at the Bush Center's Forum on Leadership in 2018. “Amazon is one of the lotteries I won. ”

“ You don't get to be successful like this by being hard-working or having a good idea. You have to be lucky in today's society in order for that to happen. ”
- Mark Zuckerberg

Being in a state of consistent good luck regardless of the economic cycle empowers every individual to forge their own destiny and live life on their own terms.

Understanding the concept of Luck Cycles

In Classical Feng Shui tradition, individuals are often encouraged to avoid risky endeavours such as investing, making career switches and starting businesses during their bad luck cycles. Instead of attempting to reverse one's bad fortune, Classical Feng Shui suggests that an individual should accept their predestined fate.

Contrastingly, Imperial Feng Shui utilises the concept of luck cycles to create favourable conditions for thriving. Believing in the unlimited potential of humans, it preaches the notion of choice.

Every individual has the choice to improve their luck, to achieve consistent progress and astounding breakthroughs in their business, sales, career and investment endeavours.

Five Types of Wealth Luck

In Imperial Feng Shui Tradition, there are five types of wealth luck: career wealth luck, business wealth luck, windfall wealth luck, investment wealth luck and grand wealth luck.

Career Wealth God Tua Pek Gong
福德正神大伯公

Enhancing their career wealth luck enables ambitious career persons to meet the right benefactors, acquire the right opportunities to achieve accelerated progression in their industries, secure salary increments and be headhunted with competitive job offers from prestigious firms.

It empowers motivated, ambitious and talented individuals to experience exponential growth in their career, business, sales and investment ventures.

CHAPTER 3

Deciphering the Major Yin

The Major Yin (太阴) in Yin & Yang governs personal luck.

Each individual has two or three favourable elements, decipherable from their Bazi chart, that reveal how their Major Yin can be balanced to enhance their personal luck. With corresponding auspicious colours, each favourable element can create wealth, health and success.

At Imperial Harvest, Master David and his team of skilled consultants personally analyse every client's Bazi chart to determine their favourable elements and auspicious colours.

The scales on its back, resembling those of a carp, brings a plethora of wealth into its environment, alluding to the carp symbolization of abundance.

Imperial Harvest Celestial Deities

In many cultures around the world, deities are revered as spiritual beings of higher power. Worshipping them is believed to bring about auspiciousness, abundance and achievement.

The Imperial Harvest Celestial Deities Collection pays tribute to five prominent deities widely worshipped across Asia.

Thousand Hand Guan Yin

A benevolent figure of compassion and mercy, the Thousand Hand Guan Yin is devoted to her noble mission of empowering individuals to achieve financial freedom, success and wealth. Her blessings also bring good health and harmony to loyal devotees.

With an additional eleven heads, the Thousand Hand Guan Yin is empowered with wisdom and intelligence. This further propels her efforts to help all sentient beings overcome challenges in their career, business, investment and sales ventures, as well as their relationships.

Confucius

A scholarly figure, Confucius' philosophies remain fundamental in many East Asian societies today. In particular, he is revered for his wisdom, advocacy of moral uprightness and constant pursuit of self-improvement.

Emphasising scholastic achievement, social morality, justice, kindness and sincerity, Confucius empowers those seeking academic breakthroughs. With greater ambition, motivation and determination, individuals striving towards peak performance in academic environments can achieve breakthrough results.

Yue Lao

Yue Lao is the Chinese deity who brings couples together and builds a harmonious relationship in marriages.

He is depicted as an old man leaning on his pack reading a book under the moonlight. This God of Matchmaking and Marriage is also known as the “old man of the moonlight”.

Lord Ganesha

Lord Ganesha is one of the best-known and most worshipped deities in the Hindu pantheon. Known as the god of new beginnings, he is worshipped by faithful devotees before they embark on any new venture or journey.

Lord Ganesha is most often depicted in the form of an elephant with a curved trunk and big ears. His large head symbolises the ability to think out of the box, envision new possibilities and traverse new terrain.

Revered as the remover of obstacles and the god of intellect and wisdom, it is widely believed that praying to Lord Ganesha brings good luck, an influx of wealth and assistance to overcome obstacles in life.

Laughing Buddha with Treasure Bag

The Laughing Buddha is a figurehead of auspicious luck and abundance, where a plenitude of wealth, happiness and satisfaction befalls on its destined owner. It also has the benefit of revitalising the intellect and the reduction of tension within the environment.

The treasure bag that the Laughing Buddha carries around is known to contain countless gold ingots (金元宝), signifying never-ending wealth for those in the Laughing Buddha's favour.

As the Laughing Buddha is the manifestation of wealth luck and the wealth garnering gold ingot symbolises prosperity and prestige, the Laughing Buddha with Treasure Bag is the ultimate wealth garnering Imperial Feng Shui treasure.

Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite Supreme Wealth God

During the fall of the Shang Dynasty, Yuanshi Tianzun (元始天尊) ordered the Jade Emperor (玉皇) to appoint the Supreme Wealth God (also known as Xuan Tian Shang Di - 玄天上帝) as the commander of the twelve heavenly legions to fight the Demon King. After defeating the Demon King, the Supreme Wealth God was granted the title of Mysterious Heavenly Highest Deity.

It is this very legend that led to the Supreme Wealth God's status as one of the highest ranking deities - second only to the Jade Emperor. In temples dedicated to the Supreme Wealth God, the tortoise and serpent under the feet of his glorious image symbolises that good will always prevail over evil.

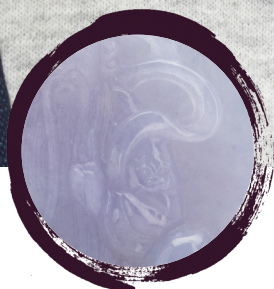

Seven Star Sword

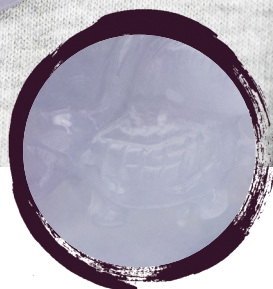

北斗七星剑

The Seven Star Sword is the most powerful weapon of prosperity. It commands cosmic energies from the universe's seven major constellations to help its destined owner achieve a quantum leap in their career, sales, investments and business ventures.

Serpent
金灵蛇

Turtle
乌龟

A mythical creature, the serpent is known to bless its destined owner with sharp business acumen and foresight to spot lucrative business opportunities.

Acumen refers to intuition and the ability to make decisions with limited data and information. This trait is extremely important for one to achieve wealth and success.

When an opportunity is widely publicised by the media, it is no longer worth pursuing. An example would be the advent of E-commerce and drop-shipping businesses which has led many early adopters to become newly minted millionaires.

The Turtle is another mythical creature known to bless the destined owner with wisdom and knowledge to navigate treacherous business markets and rise to the top echelons of the industry. It also blesses the destined owner with mentor and benefactor luck - a critical success factor in the world of business, trade and investments.

Deeply empowered with auspicious features, the Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite Supreme Wealth God Pendant is ideal for those seeking the highest level of financial breakthroughs and success in all their endeavours and ventures.

Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite Imperial Dragon

Since the days of ancient China, the Imperial Dragon has been highly revered and regarded as the most auspicious emblem of wealth, power and authority. The Imperial Dragon is known as the greatest divine force on earth and is synonymous with Chinese emperors.

This came to be after the Yellow Emperor (黄帝) was said by legend to have been immortalised into a dragon and ascended to heaven at the end of his reign.

As such, Chinese emperors came to be referred to as “the descendants of the dragon”.

This strong affiliation with the dragon accounts for the dragon motifs on Chinese emperors’ robes, thrones and jewellery. The Imperial Palace is also vastly decorated with motifs of regal dragons. Dragons with five claws are the ultimate symbol of wealth and power - they are used solely by Chinese emperors to represent their divine rank and royal status.

In Imperial Feng Shui, the Imperial Dragon is one of the most important symbols of power, wealth and prosperity. The divine creature empowers individuals with the spirit of personal development, wisdom and foresight to overcome all adversities and achieve massive breakthroughs.

The Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite Imperial Dragon is one of the most powerful Imperial Feng Shui collections - it is the ideal treasure for ambitious entrepreneurs and corporate professionals looking to supercharge their success and rise to the top of their respective fields.

Dragon Pearl

An emblem of wisdom and authority, the dragon pearl is the ultimate wealth magnet. It empowers its destined owner with powerful mentors and benefactors. This enables them to navigate the volatile markets to secure and close big-ticket deals.

Empowering one with wisdom to lead and attract a world-class team of talents, the dragon pearl is designed to take its destined owner to the next level in realising their aspirations.

Double Dragon

According to legend, Tian Long (天龙) is the celestial dragon which guards the Heavenly palace while Shen Long (神龙) is the divine dragon which summons the winds and rains.

The illustration of the duo pursuing a chasing a dragon pearl in the Heavens represents its destined owner's ability to safeguard their assets and secure golden opportunities.

Representing "double excellence", the double dragon blesses its destined owner with the gift of twice the prosperity, twice the grand benefactor luck and twice the good fortune.

Deciphering the Minor Yang

The Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite Cabochon Collections

Complementary to the Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite pendants, the Imperial Harvest Fine Jadeite cabochons balance the Minor Yang - it improves its predestined owner's intuition.

Intuition is critical for making decisions in important situations, when there is ambiguity and a lack of data. Having good intuition empowers you to seize the first mover advantage.

Likened to the position of the Minor Yang residing within the Major Yin, Imperial Harvest's Fine Jadeite Cabochons are harvested from the centre of large jadeite boulders where Imperial Feng Shui energies are the densest and most intense. Only the jadeites with the highest clarity and fancy vivid colours are qualified to be Imperial Harvest Jadeite Cabochons.

Imperial Harvest QING Collection

The Qing Golden Age under Emperors Kang Xi and Qian Long was the most prosperous era of China's dynastic history. Under their wise and benevolent rule, there was a flourishing in arts, culture, architecture and innovation.

The Imperial Harvest QING Collection is inspired by this age of unparalleled prosperity.

During this time, Qing court's imperial jewellery gradually took on an east-meets-west aesthetic. While nonetheless strictly adhering to traditional Imperial standards, fashionable jewellery for Manchu women began incorporating Western jewellery techniques such as lapidary, enameling, and inlay.

The Imperial Harvest QING collection pays tribute to the fashion and philosophy of the Qing golden age, using three precious materials - gold, jadeite and diamonds.

Our brilliantly cut diamonds which gracefully adorn the collection are a tasteful modern interpretation of the beads that characterised Qing dynasty imperial fashion. Like the beads, the elegant fluidity found in the design of our QING Collection represents everlasting longevity and prosperity.

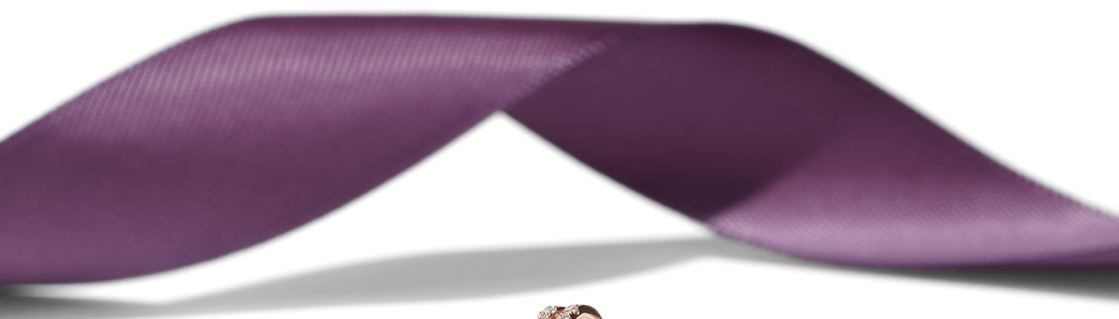

Featuring five specially commissioned gemological cuts, the QING Collection is meticulously designed to traditional Imperial Feng Shui principles and innovatively reimaged with a modern aesthetic.

Octagon-Cut Jadeite

Boasting eight iconic chamfered edges, Imperial Harvest's patented octagon-cut jadeite pays tribute to the Eight Trigrams (Bagua). Just as the Eight Trigrams are the foundational building blocks of Chinese civilization, this stunning design empowers the wearer, encouraging and inspiring them to be the architect of their own future and the master of their own destiny.

Round-Cut Jadeite

Inspired by the traditional Chinese geographical philosophy of a 'Round Heaven and Square Earth' (天圆地方) which has influenced the design of ancient Chinese currency, the Temple of Heaven and the Imperial Palace, the round-cut jadeite cabochon empowers the wearer to achieve all-rounded success in their lives. This elegantly shaped round-cut jadeite cabochon, with stunningly high levels of natural beauty and brilliance, inspires excellence and success in career, business, investment, relationships and health.

Asscher-Cut Jadeite

The exquisite asscher-cut jadeite cabochon is classically proportioned.

It represents the Earth in Chinese philosophical tradition of a 'Round Heaven and Square Earth' (天圆地方). Similar to the notion of Mother Earth as a nurturing environment for prosperous growth and continuous progress, the asscher-cut cabochon symbolises and develops a solid foundation for the wearer, enhancing their success in all future endeavours.

Emerald-Cut Jadeite

The emerald-cut jadeite cabochon features meticulously chamfered multi-tier facets within a graceful streamlined form. In Chinese numerology, odd numbers are considered heavenly. The cabochon's three tiers represent the three flights of steps that the Emperor ascended to arrive at the Circular Mound Altar in the Temple of Heaven during the Summer solstice, where he would pray for blessings of rain. Resonating with the adage that journeys of a thousand miles begin with a single step, Imperial Harvest's emerald-cut jadeite cabochon inspires the wearer to step up to the challenge, scale the heights in life, and reach the very top.

Dew-Cut Jadeite

The dew-cut jadeite cabochon represents a raindrop, the symbolic dew of heaven. It is a precious gift bestowed upon us by the Heavens as the source of all life on earth. For centuries, agriculture formed the economic backbone of countless civilisations. A bountiful harvest strongly indicated that the Emperor enjoyed a strong mandate of Heaven for his rule. The dew-cut jadeite cabochon similarly blesses the wearer with abundance and prosperity, for every day of their life.

All-New Bliss of Harvest Rings: Temple of Heaven Edition

The All-New Bliss of Harvest Ring: Temple of Heaven Edition is arguably Imperial Harvest's most iconic collection, paying homage to the famous Hall of Prayer for Good Harvests in the Temple of Heaven. It concretises the historic links between Imperial Harvest and our dedication to authentic Imperial Feng Shui traditions.

Our lustrous 18K solid rose gold rings are created from a proprietary blend of pure gold, copper and silver - representing heaven, earth, and human elements.

The beautiful hue intensifies with age, and evokes the vibrant red found throughout the imperial temple, a colour deeply synonymous with prosperity and auspiciousness.

The Bliss of Harvest ring is embellished with the finest jadeite cabochon, perfectly round and glistening, resembling the gilded orb which crowns the Temple of Heaven's regal Hall of Prayer. It takes hours of finely-honed craftsmanship to harvest the cabochon from a jadeite boulder, shaping it to perfection, and hand-polishing the gem to bring out the jadeite's natural depth of colour.

The intricate design gives the impression of three separate bands wrapped gently around the finger, comforting and caressing the owner.

Elegant in form, and robust in construction, our tri-band rings take inspiration from the Hall of Prayer. Its roof is formed of three graceful circular tiers which build on each other, rising to a crescendo, and merging into one magnificent creation.

Our new designs continue to set the highest standards for Imperial Feng Shui jewellery design, and are a testament to Master David Goh's bold and inspired vision.

CHAPTER 5

Deciphering the Major Yang

An Introduction to Wealth Capacity

Wealth Capacity refers to the amount of wealth an individual is able to amass in their lifetime. Every individual's wealth capacity reveals their financial limitations in life, as well as the income potential derived from the financial opportunities they encounter in their life.

Implications of Wealth Capacity

Individuals with large wealth capacities but no luck to support their wealth creation tend to experience opportunities slipping through their hands.

Contrastingly, individuals who are in good luck cycles but who have limited wealth capacities tend to lead peaceful yet financially limited lives. While there tend not to be major ups and downs in their lives, most struggle to retire comfortably in their golden years.

Undoubtedly, there are some exceptional individuals who have the privilege of having both good luck and massive wealth capacities - often, they become millionaires or billionaires.

For everyone else, countering the implications of small wealth capacities is crucial to amassing wealth.

Two types of Wealth Capacity

Direct Wealth Capacity

Direct wealth capacity (正财库) is defined as the income potential we derive from our career, business, sales and other regular sources of income. If you are a full-time trader, trading is deemed as your source of direct wealth.

Indirect Wealth Capacity

Indirect Wealth Capacity (偏财库) refers to the income potential we derive from our investment, trading and other infrequent sources of income. If you have a full-time job and engage in investment activities on the side, investment is deemed as your source of indirect wealth.

Direct Wealth Capacity

Direct wealth capacity (正财库) is defined as the income potential we derive from our career, business, sales and other regular sources of income. If you are a full-time trader, trading is the source of your direct wealth.

With their eminence, Emperor Qian Long's Imperial Feng Shui masters uncovered the Major Yang-balancing properties of agarwood. This refers to the dark resins formed in aquilaria trees by the onset of fermentation with specific types of mould. One of the world's most cherished woods, agarwood is highly sought after not only for its Feng Shui properties, but also for its unique intense fragrance and attractive appearance.

Imperial Harvest Agarwood Collection

Emperor Qian Long is one of the most prosperous and successful emperors of the Qing Dynasty. Wherever and whenever he travelled, he never failed to bring along two essential Imperial Feng Shui treasures - one of them was his personalised fine white jadeite (corresponding to his favourable metal element) while the other was his agarwood beads.

Agarwood is critical to expanding wealth capacity - Emperor Qian Long's dedication to the art of Imperial Feng Shui enabled the Qing Dynasty's enjoyment of tremendous wealth, harmony and prosperity.

For this very reason, the Imperial Harvest Agarwood Collection is an essential collection for those seeking to amplify their direct wealth capacity. 《与陈漳浦莘学话旧》诗： “山租输海贝，市舶贱边楠”

Loosely translated, it suggests that “Similar to a sea shell outweighing the value of rental income earned from a mountain, a single piece of Qinan Agarwood is worth more than a municipal ship.”

In ancient China, it was widely believed that Lingzhi would be discovered when a virtuous ruler was guarding the throne. It was a highly coveted and welcome sign that an empire would be peaceful and prosperous.

Naturally, this rendered the Lingzhi highly popular with Chinese emperors. When the Lingzhi was discovered during Emperor Wudi's reign of the Western Han dynasty, he wrote poems in its praise, declared an amnesty for all prisoners, and donated food and wine to a hundred households.

The Lingzhi's association with prosperity was also borne out during the Han Emperor Wudi's 54 year reign, since it is one of the longest in Imperial China's history.

Similar to how the discovery of Lingzhi symbolised blessings from the heaven for the Chinese rulers, Imperial Harvest Yellow Qinan Ling Zhi (金丝结黄奇楠灵芝) blesses the wearer with long-lasting success, opportunities and benefactors at every stage of their business, career, investment and trading ventures.

CHAPTER 6

Deciphering the Minor Yin

Indirect Wealth Capacity

Indirect Wealth Capacity (偏财库) refers to the income potential we derive from our investment, trading and other secondary sources of income. If you hold a full-time job and invest your funds on the side, these investments constitute your source of indirect wealth.

Imperial Feng Shui masters of the Qing dynasty found that the Minor Yin could be balanced by sandalwood, derived from the Santalum family of trees. As sandalwood retains and emanates a pleasant fragrance for many years, it has been widely harvested for a wide variety of uses. Along with similarly high demand for its oils, this has made it one of the most expensive woods in the world.

Imperial Harvest Sandalwood Collection

Every piece in the Imperial Harvest Sandalwood Collection is carved from Old Mountain Sandalwood trees and polished meticulously. Aligned with our conviction to utilise only the finest sandalwood, these trees are at least 80 years of age before they are logged.

For utmost prosperity, the freshly logged sandalwood is stored only at the indirect wealth sector of Imperial Harvest's dedicated workshop. There, it absorbs prosperous indirect wealth energies during the entirely natural and organic fermentation process. Meticulous attention is dedicated to every detail in the coming to life of an Imperial Harvest Treasure.

After realising that many unhappy beings were yet to attain salvation, Amitabha Buddha blessed the Thousand Hand Guan Yin with an additional eleven heads. This empowered her with wisdom and intelligence to help suffering beings overcome challenges in their career, business, investment and sales ventures, as well as their relationships.

Often depicted in bright, vibrant colours and dashing bejeweled, the Qi Lin is associated with precious metals, gemstones and the five elements. They are believed to be good omens - welcome signs of prosperity, success and longevity.

According to legends, the Qi Lin, despite being a mythical creature, materialised in the Yellow Emperor's garden - a testimony to his wisdom, compassion and wealth. Later on, it was also claimed that a Qi Lin preempted the birth of Confucius, a deeply erudite scholar revered as one of the great sages of China.

Today, the myth of the Qi Lin continues to permeate Chinese culture, manifesting itself in the form of traditional Chinese dance, music, art and literature.

India Old Mountain Sandalwood (Black Meat) Dragon Phoenix and Pineapple

In Imperial Feng Shui tradition, the Dragon is emblematic of Yin while the Phoenix represents Yang. Symbolising perfect balance, they form a formidable duo.

In dynastic China, this notion of a perfect pair was realised through the Emperor and Empress - the Emperor was revered as a Dragon while the Empress was likened to a Phoenix. In harmonious cooperation, generations of Emperors and Empresses were able to amass immense wealth, success and breakthrough growth.

For this very reason, the Dragon and Phoenix are also often viewed as a symbol of matrimonial harmony in Chinese culture.

Couple with the pineapple, a symbol of wealth, prosperity and good fortune in Chinese culture, the Dragon Phoenix and Pineapple pendant represents abundance, achievement and success.
